The Leadership and Leadership Development Track is pleased to announce the call for papers for the 38th BAM Conference titled 'Achieving transformation for greater good: Societal, organisational and personal barriers and enablers.' This theme is echoed in our call for papers.

With the COVID pandemic now behind us, business leaders face other global challenges brought on by the war in Europe and the development in the Middle East. The question of how to elicit transformation in organisations has assumed a new urgency against a backdrop of intense global competition as well as political, technological, economic and moral imperatives.

These trends have important implications for leadership and leadership development and call for leaders to transform their organisations for the greater good to mitigate against the challenges of a global world. Some of these challenges are highlighted in the main conference theme and are reflected in our call for papers, but others will no doubt occur to track members.

We welcome full and developmental papers as we explore leadership, the way we lead and leadership development, including empirical studies, theoretical contributions and interdisciplinary papers. More specifically, those that address the conference theme. We are also interested in, but not restricted to the following themes:

- Traditional paradigms of leadership, including traits, behaviour and contingency approaches towards transformative organisations.
- Transforming organisations through leadership to take advantage of new business opportunities.
- Transformational leadership education
- Management and leadership towards organisational transformation
- Leadership skills and development towards a transformational global business environment
- How can leaders use AI for transforming organisations?
- Women leaders at the forefront of organisational transformation

- Leading with vision towards transformation for the greater good
- Psychodynamic approach to leadership
- Transformational leadership in organisations
- Distributed, shared or team leadership in transforming organisations
- Transactional leadership role in transforming organisations
- Sustainable digitalisation for leadership in organisations
- The role of leadership in disruptive global value chains from external shocks
- Leadership for innovation
- Entrepreneurial leadership towards transformative organisations
- Ethics in leadership towards transformative organisations
- Cross-cultural studies of leadership
- Authentic and Pseudo transformational leadership
- Servant leadership in transforming organisations
- Strategic leadership
- Emerging leadership theories

We have an open list for potential submissions but are particularly interested in papers which explore leadership and leadership development.

We look forward to your submissions.
